

Announcement for the Germany Scholarships for the winter semester 2024/2025 and the summer semester 2025

I. General Information

For the winter semester 2024/25 the University of Hohenheim plans to announce 65 Germany Scholarships. Of those 65 scholarships 27 can be extended, the other 38 will be awarded to new recipients.

Candidates may apply for those study programs in which they are enrolled or have applied for enrolment. Applications are only possible for the standard period of study. Applications are only possible for the standard period of study. The individual standard period of study can be found on your study program data sheet.

The amount awarded is € 300 per month. It is paid to the recipient in monthly instalments in the form of a grant and is typically awarded for a period of one year. The scholarship period begins on 1 October. It is possible to apply for an extension within the standard period of study.

Scholarships are awarded regardless of one's income, and those already receiving state funding (BAföG) are eligible to apply.

The maximum funding period depends upon the standard period of study of a particular study programme and can only exceed this period if there is a valid reason. In such cases, an application for an extension of the funding period must be submitted in written form and must also mention the reason(s) why an extension is warranted.

II. Selection Criteria:

• Primary selection criteria:

Students in their first year/subject-related semester:

- a) The transcript of records from their university entrance qualification. For foreign transcripts, a notarized translation that includes a calculation of the grades into the German grading system is necessary including the individual grades that are relevant for the selected degree programme according to the admission regulations. If the admission regulations do not require any individual grades, the grades in the subjects mathematics and the first foreign language must be calculated for the German system.

Students in the second subject-related semester and higher:

- a) Weighted grade for selection: all modules for every semester already completed. The day of the exam determines the semester to which the module is assigned. The weighted score from all modules included is the grade point average of those modules.
- b) From applications for a Master's degree programme the transcripts for the first university degree.

• Secondary selection criteria:

- a) Awards and recognition for above-average performance at the secondary or tertiary level,
- b) Community activities,
- c) Volunteer work at the University,
- d) Special social, personal, or family-related circumstances or family background (e.g. migrant background).

• Calculation

The primary and secondary selection criteria are assigned a certain number of points. For primary selection criteria, 40 points are awarded for a grade of 1.0 (4.0 on the GPA scale) and 10 points for a grade of 4.0 (1.0 on the GPA scale). The points are given in steps of 0.1.

A maximum of 5 points are awarded for each secondary selection criteria (a total of 4 criteria). At most, 10 points can be awarded for secondary selection criteria werden.
